ORR clients determined ineligible for Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) and Medicaid may be eligible for RCA and RMA for up to eight months from the date of arrival in the U.S., date of final grant of asylum for asylees, or date of certification for trafficking victims.

a) Refugee Cash Assistance and TANF

VA local departments of social services (LDSS) are responsible for processing applications for TANF and RCA programs. Refugees who meet the TANF financial requirements, but are ineligible for TANF due to a categorical reason, are eligible for RCA. RCA income and standard of need requirements are the same as TANF. RCA is limited to eight months from the date of arrival or date asylum is granted. The monthly payment level for an RCA family of one is $213; the TANF assistance level for a family of three is $364.

b) Refugee Medical Assistance (RMA) and Refugee Medical Screening (RMS)

The Department of Social Services (VDSS) oversees the RMA program including providing RMA policy guidance to local DSS offices which determine eligibility for RMA. In collaboration with the Department of Medical Assistance Services (DMAS), DSS shares responsibility for the provision of RMA benefits. The RMA income standard follows the state's Medically Needy financial eligibility standards. Virginia has not expanded Medicaid to low-income adults without dependent children.

VDSS has a contract with the Department of Health (VDH) for the administration of the medical screening. Local health departments (LHD) in Virginia provide screenings to refugees through RMA funds. VDH provides coordination and technical assistance to local resettlement agencies and LHDs and reimburses LHDs for the provision of medical screenings. VDH tracks medical screening data in an ACCESS database; however, VDH is currently working with VDSS to transition into a web-based system.

c) Unaccompanied Refugee Minors (URM) Program

Background

The Unaccompanied Refugee Minors (URM) program was developed in the late 1970s to address the needs of children who entered the U.S. as refugees without a parent or guardian to care for them. Over the years Congress has passed additional legislation authorizing URM eligibility to other categories of unaccompanied children such as asylees, Cuban/Haitian Entrants, trafficking victims, certain Special Immigrant Juveniles, and U-visa recipients. Eligible children are placed into the URM program and receive the same range of child welfare benefits and services available to other children in the State, including those identified in the State's plans under Title IV-B and IV-E of the Social Security Act. The purpose of the URM program is to help unaccompanied minors develop appropriate skills to enter adulthood and to achieve economic and social self-sufficiency through delivery of child welfare services in a culturally sensitive manner.

The Virginia Office of Newcomer Services (ONS) within the State's Department of Social Services receives the ORR's Cash and Medical Assistance (CMA) funds to operate its URM program. ONS then contracts for the services with a licensed child welfare agency, Commonwealth Catholic Charities (CCC). URM services have been provided in and around Richmond since 1979.

Legal Responsibility

While the State's child welfare system can be described as a county-administered system, CCC obtains legal responsibility for URM children in their care. As a result of being in private agency custody, URMs in Virginia do not qualify for the Education and Training Vouchers (ETV) and independent living services which are partially funded through the state's Chafee allocation from the Children's Bureau. For a parity of services, ONS provides an ORR-funded equivalent educational training or services for eligible youth.

Placements/Services

CCC is affiliated with and receives placements from the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB), one of the two national resettlement agencies that receive Reception and Placement funds from the Department of State for resettlement of unaccompanied refugee minors from overseas. CCC is accredited by the Council on Accreditation and is licensed and authorized under Virginia law to accept custody of foster children and adoptive placement and provide supervision and case management services. Placements are made in about five counties, while legal responsibility is established in Henrico County court. A few years ago, ONS contracted with CCC for a trial sub-office in Roanoke, where custody was established in Roanoke County court. ONS has been expressing its intention to close URM operations in Roanoke when the last youth terminates from the program. However, to meet the growing need for capacity, ORR is working with ONS for the possible continuation and further development of the Roanoke sub-office. Currently, URM children are placed in foster care, therapeutic foster care, group homes, semi-independent living, independent living, or residential treatment center placements.

2. Refugee Social Services

The Refugee Social Services Program funds services to refugees to help them obtain employment and achieve economic self-sufficiency in the shortest time possible. Employment and support services are designed to enable refugees to obtain jobs within one year of becoming enrolled in the program.

Sections to be completed by DRA, URM, DRH, and DRS are highlighted as indicated.

ONS contracts with community based non-profit organizations to provide eligible refugee populations with services funded through the Refugee Social Services and Targeted Assistance Program grant funding. Virginia's refugee employment program is called the Refugee Social Services Employment Program (RSSEP).

- Employment Services include: employability assessment, job search, vocational English Language services/ESL, vocational education, on the job training, case management, assistance with daycare, assistance in obtaining employment documents, translation/interpretation assistance, transportation assistance, job development, job upgrade services, and job retention services.
- Support services include: daycare, translation and interpretation for purposes other than employment, citizenship and naturalization preparation services, home management, financial literacy services, and case management services.

Refugees in the following categories receive service priority:

- New arrivals in their first year in the U.S.
- Those receiving cash assistance
- Unemployed refugees not receiving cash assistance
- Employed refugees in need of services to retain employment or to attain economic independence

Services to Older Refugees Set-Aside: This project assists older refugees in accessing community support networks and facilitates in becoming and remaining independent in the communities where they are resettled.

Cuban/Haitian Set-Aside: Under this program, VA prepares Cuban and Haitian Entrants with assistance in preparing for the U.S citizenship test and encourages civic engagement. Cuban and Haitian entrants are eligible for cash and medical assistance from the same agencies and under the same conditions as other individuals with refugee-eligible immigration documents.

3. Targeted Assistance Grant (TAG)

The Targeted Assistance Grant services are similar to Refugee Social Services; however they are distinctive in that they prioritize:

- Cash assistance recipients, particularly long-term recipients
- Unemployed refugees not receiving cash assistance
- Employed refugees in need of services to retain employment or to attain economic independence

TAG funds are used to supplement, and not to replace other funded programs. Funding under this program is used to provide intensive services in the targeted area.

2. Refugee School Impact

Also called the Virginia Refugee Achievement Project (VRAP), this project assists refugee children in the geographic area covered by the grant to succeed in school. Under this project, parents are provided with the needed support to understand the U.S education system and educators are provided with the understanding of the needs of refugee children.

3. Health Promotion

The Virginia Department of Health (VDH) in Richmond is awarded $125,000 in Refugee Health Promotion (RHP) funds. VDH utilizes RHP funds to purchase thermometers for refugees, and to maintain a contractual agreement with the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Development Services (DBHDS). The contract with DBHDS supports an annual refugee summit, an emergency interpreter funding pool, and the following trainings for service providers: 1) Question Persuade Refer (QPR) Suicide Prevention, 2) Multicultural Mental Health First Aid, 3) Virginia Language Access Collaborative workshops held at an annual conference, 4) Trauma Informed Cultural Orientation for New Refugees, 5) Center for International Stabilization and Recovery Adolescent Peer Support Training, 6) Refugee Cultural and Linguistic Competence Facilitator Certification, 7) Qualified Bilingual Staff Training, Mental Health Interpreter Training.

Discretionary Grants Administered by Resettlement Agency or Other Service Providers

1. Survivors of Torture Program

Northern Virginia Family Services' (NVFS) Program for Survivors of Torture and Severe Trauma (PSTT) receives $250,000 annually to serve 130 clients each year. NVFS provides in-house mental health, case management, and legal services. NVFS' health access program provides PSTT clients with access to affordable health and dental care in the community. PSTT has a longstanding relationship with George Washington University Medical Center for psychiatric services and medication management. In addition, PSTT provides on-site counseling services for refugees at Lutheran Social Services/National Capitol Area's resettlement center.

2. Matching Grant Program

The Resettlement Agencies Matching Grant Program (MG) was created in 1979 as an intensive case management program with the objective to fast track new arrivals toward economic self-sufficiency within four to six months (120 – 180 days) of program eligibility, without accessing public cash assistance. Enrollment in MG is available to all ORR-eligible populations meeting minimum employability requirements and to the extent funding is available. However, clients must be enrolled within 31 days of becoming eligible to ensure adequate services are provided and self-sufficiency is achieved and maintained within the period of eligibility. As demand for MG Program services continues to exceed available funding, enrollment is not available to all those eligible and desirous of program services.

Client services provided through the Resettlement Agencies Matching Grant Program include, but are not limited to, case management, employment services, housing and utilities, food, transportation, cash allowance, health and medical, English language training, social adjustment, and other support services.

The MG Program is designed to work in concert with the Reception and Placement (R&P) program for refugees offered by the Department of State (DOS), and the Cuban & Haitian Entrant Reception and Placement (R&P) program offered by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). Thus, funding under the MG Program is open only to those resettlement agencies that already provide R&P services through a cooperative agreement with the DOS or DHS. Congress confirmed this approach to the program in the 1986 Refugee Assistance Extension Act. The MG Program requires a grantee match of $1 (cash and/or in-kind) for every $2 in Federal funding.

3. Preferred Communities Program

The Preferred Communities Program's goals are the successful resettlement and integration of especially vulnerable ORR client populations and the enhancement of agencies' capacity to serve such populations at new or established PC locations. Specialized services such as intensive case management is intended to result in these refugees' attainment of self-sufficiency in the area of their lives impacted by their particular vulnerability, which may include, but is not limited to, medical disabilities, trauma, and lack of access to supporting services.

The Refugee Agricultural Partnership Program (RAPP) improves the supply and quality of food in urban and rural areas through refugee farming projects, which provide income opportunities for refugees while also encouraging a healthy diet. RAPP supports collaboration among refugees and other community-based organizations to participate in activities such as community gardens, small acreage farming, farm-to-school programs, school gardens, health and nutrition classes, and farmers' markets and local food banks.

The grantee is in the first year of a three-year project period. While progress for the grant has not been reported yet, the grantee proposed to accomplish the following during its project period:

- Increase access to land and other resources for the purpose of farming.
- Incorporate relevant refugee cultural backgrounds and allow refugees to use their experience and skills in farming.
- Increase refugee knowledge and skills in nutrition and food safety for personal consumption and where relevant, processing for market.
- Increase knowledge of farming safety.
- Provide farming business development and training to refugees interested in pursuing farming as a means towards self-sufficiency.
- Increase potential for supplemental income through refugee farming initiatives.
- Increase access to healthy and nutritious foods through farming—particularly in urban areas, or areas defined as food deserts by USDA.
- Increase the psychosocial development of refugees.

VI. Employment Outcomes

Virginia's state employability programs served 2,096 refugees in FY16, with the state reporting 50% (1,055) of participants entering employment and a 95% 90-day job retention rate. The average wage was $11.01 per hour. Among RCA and TANF recipients, 238 participants (69%) terminated cash assistance.

Building New Lives in Charlottesville

Refugees come from crowded camps and life-threatening conflict zones around the world. Many have waited years for a place to call home. With support from the community, the International Rescue Committee has helped over 3,500 refugees from 32 countries build new lives in Charlottesville.

WHAT WE DO

- Resettlement: When refugees arrive in Charlottesville, the IRC helps them adjust to life in the U.S. IRC case managers ensure that all refugees receive comprehensive services and case management. The IRC provides safe and affordable housing, matches refugees with volunteer mentors, facilitates school enrollment for children, and makes referrals for medical care and other necessary services.
- Employment Services: Jobs are critical to the success of newly arrived refugees. All refugees come to the U.S. legally and are given immediate authorization to work. The IRC provides ongoing job readiness training and works closely with local employers and business associations to match refugees with available jobs. Within six months of arrival, the great majority of refugees are economically self-sufficient.
- Education and Integration: Integration into the local community is an essential part of refugee resettlement. Refugees come to the IRC classroom daily to learn English and participate in workshops on topics such as financial literacy, life skills and cultural orientation.
- Family Support: Licensed professionals on staff at the IRC provide parenting education, school liaison support and crisis intervention services to aid refugees' adjustment to their new home.
